THE DEMOCRAT CLINGS CLOSER.

Even if the Bellvale, members of the Democratic house of misery, will on the morrow of the new decision, "It is useless to struggle any longer. I guess we give up." Or words not an old friend of the lost cause to stop urging it to give up in fear of consequences, but as a temporary concession to party success, and in the confident expectation to regain success, and in the confidence of ultimate victory. Democrats will be encouraged and nothing is better designed for this end. The policy has eminently political success. The Democratic Republicans have done much to do by the resignation of half of and cannot pay. The leaders of the new have forced today there before they were elected. It is to the honor of the Chicago that the effect of the unfavorable conditions which the decision have on their minds to demonstrate as much as possible. Therefore they look on permanent action elsewhere as their salvation. This is the whole they contribute for the relief of those who are out of work to be the saviors of business interest based which they might otherwise turn to stand. They may even their influence to save the front and their friend, and now they have accomplished the resignation of those of workers. Clearly.

In the interest for them to listen to the president of their union, though from public or state, but their regard is hardly become before to pay attention to Congressman Lawrence when he counsel. Some are to refuse the offer of the operators by saying that the old for "three overtime and raise the price of "coal." As if it were possible for them to get a thing in the face of notable competition, and stop killing them. The Chicago would be willing to pay a higher price for it were guaranteed that the miners would receive their pay." The great substance of the Illinois coal trade get the railroads, and they know where their true interests. Big trade dictionary and an attempt to persuade them to believe them. To buy coal from one mine to bully the miners whom they owe get a lower price than their contract with the Lawson can under no pledges for the new difference when it comes to a matter of coal bills. But in the hope of getting sympathy for himself or gains for the party he will pervert everything to their ends.

It is to be hoped that the statements, or some of them at least, coming from the coal fields have slight and foolish, will continue their effect and try to have it accepted by the men who are in their immediate employ. It is the duty of the businessmen to the all they can to justify themselves in the eyes of the community. It is natural to know what are the conditions of all trade how valued that controlling industry in northern Illinois, and that it is not possible to get enough for a ton of coal to pay the wages to the men and also give a fair return on capital invested. This may be so, but it has not yet been proved. It does not seem absurd whether that capital can stand profits and that is the money annually invested in the mines or their equipment. If it be the latter, then the public will think that men justified in their demand for better pay. If the coal-fields can show that they cannot live on wages to which they have been accustomed, they will have to submit to them, but there should be no doubt about the matter until the question is settled.

Some of the Chicago men who have been in the coal fields say that the effect of the unfavorable conditions which the strike

The Clothes Pin is the finishing touch in washing. A fine piece of linen is hung over the line; the clothes pin is jammed down to hold it; the wind blows and a constant wrenching is going on until the article is taken down. A hole appears where the clothes pin was. It is difficult to see how you are going to get rid of the clothes pin; but there are things which make more holes than clothes pins; for instance, the rubbing up and down on a board—a necessity when an article is washed with common soap—will rub more holes into fine clothes or coarse, than can ever be charged to clothes pins. There is a way out of this dilemma.

Use Pearline.

You do not have to rub your clothes; soak them, boil them, rinse them, and the job is done. They will be cleaner, sweeter, whiter in half the time; colors will be brighter, flannels softer, and you have gotten rid of half the labor. PEARLINE costs no more than common soap. Millions of women are using it. Five cents will buy enough PEARLINE to prove to you that every word we say is true, and if true, a great many times five cents would be cheap for it.
